Dedication

To every child who looks up at the sky and dreams of the King who is coming back.

May these pages help you hear the trumpet sound, understand His mercy on the Day of Atonement, and celebrate the joy of Tabernacles — the day we will live with Him forever.

And to the families who wait together — may your home be filled with hope, courage, and the excitement of the Kingdom. For soon the King will return, and He will gather all His children into His tent of glory.

The children stand beneath a twilight sky.

Suddenly a silver trumpet sounds from above.

“What is that sound?” Eliyah asks.

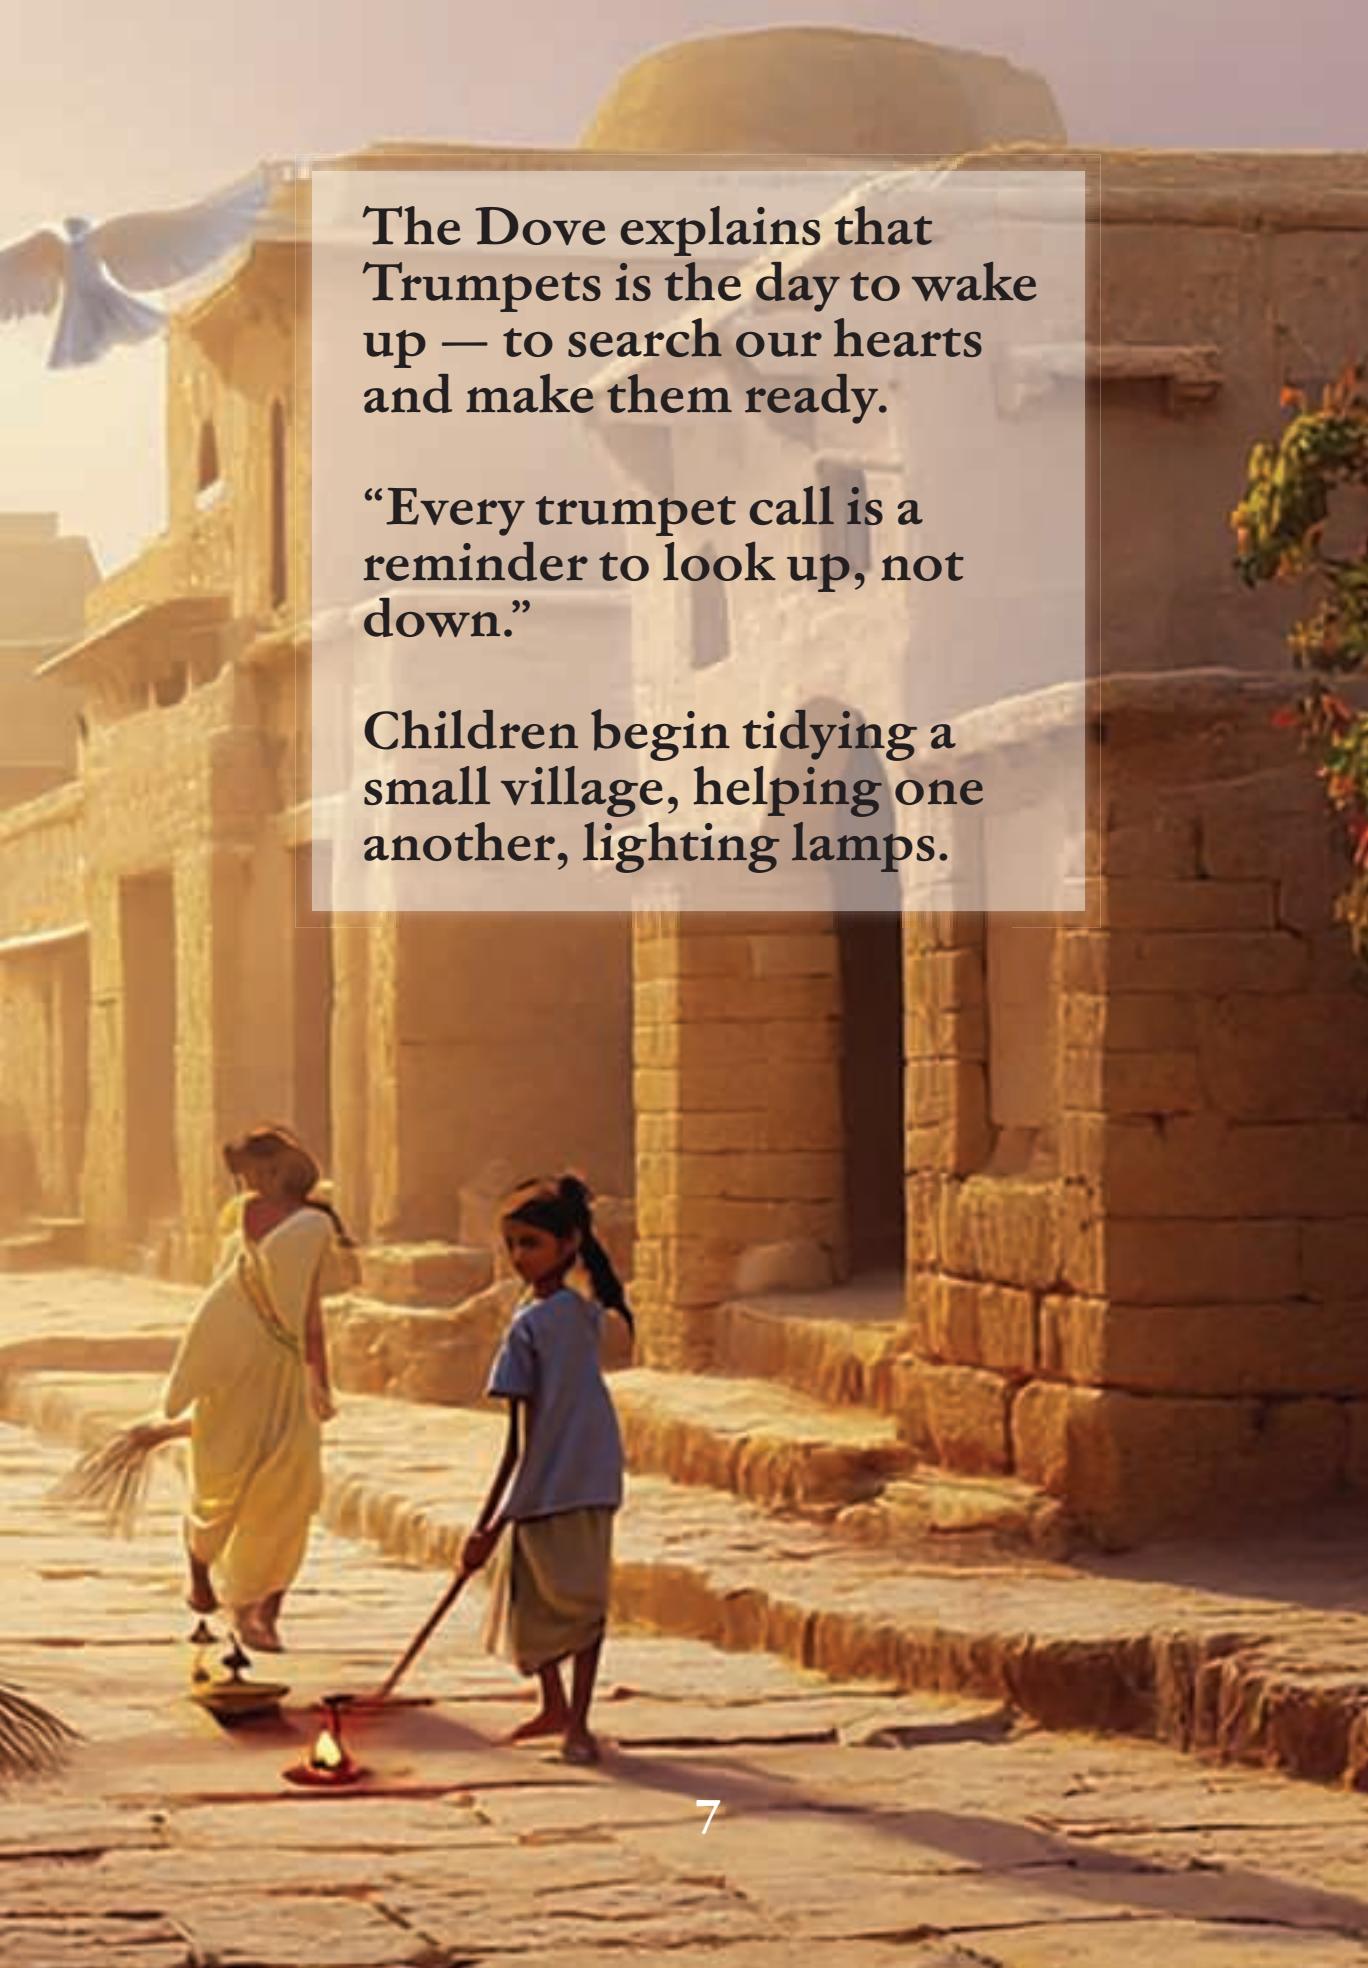

“It is the Feast of Trumpets,” says the Dove. “The King is coming soon!”

Yom Teruah is
NOT Rosh Hashannah
(“Head of the Year” = March).

Ex.12:2; Ez. 40:1

The Dove explains that Trumpets is the day to wake up — to search our hearts and make them ready.

“Every trumpet call is a reminder to look up, not down.”

Children begin tidying a small village, helping one another, lighting lamps.

יום כיפור

Acts 17:31

Yom Kipur (1 “p”)
“Day of Atonement”

A somber tone. The children see two goats in vision—one offered, one released.

“This is the day Yah sets everything right,” says the Dove.

“Mercy and justice meet. Forgiveness flows like a river.”

They kneel, whispering prayers of repentance.

The light from Heaven shines down, wrapping each child like a robe.

“When the King forgives, He forgets,” says the Dove.

Their faces brighten again—peace restored.

Atonement is the only Feast that is a Fast for 24 hours.

Lev. 23:27

Tents and branches appear. The children build sukkahs (huts) and hang fruit garlands.

“This is the Feast of joy,” says the Dove.
“It is a rehearsal for when the King comes to dwell with His people forever.”

They sing and dance under the starlit sky.

The 3 Fall Feasts are shadows of Messiah's return to come.

Heb. 8:5, 10:1, 9:11 | Col. 2: 16-17

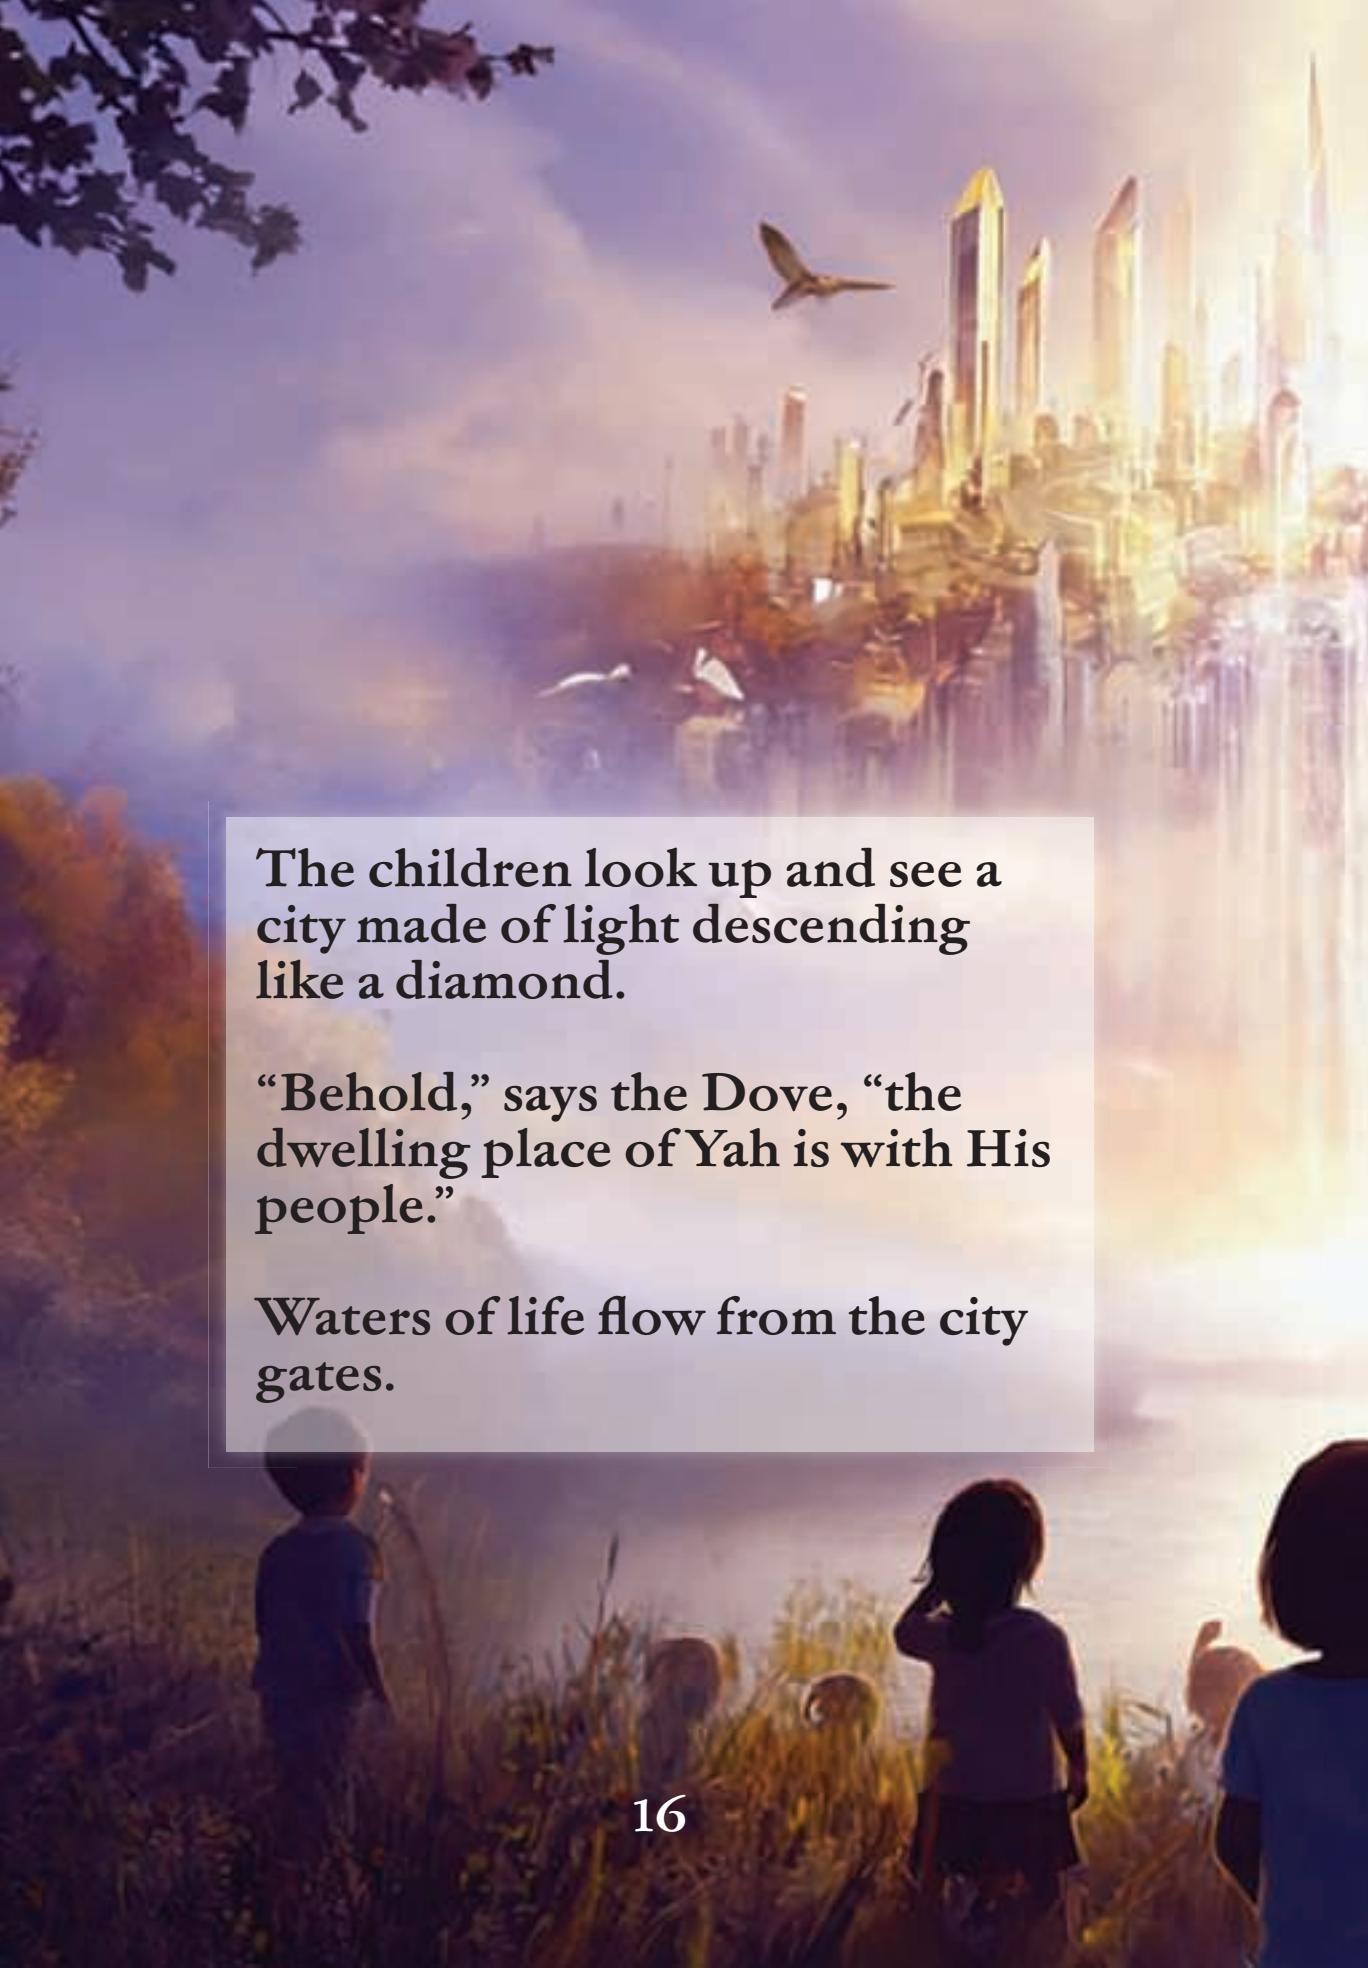

Suddenly, a radiant light fills the heavens.

“The King is coming!” the children cry.

Yahusha appears in radiant glory surrounded by hosts of shining beings.

Every knee bows.

The children look up and see a city made of light descending like a diamond.

“Behold,” says the Dove, “the dwelling place of Yah is with His people.”

Waters of life flow from the city gates.

The Heavenly Tabernacle comes down to earth.

Rev. 21:2

The children look at their hands — glowing, whole, renewed.

“We will dwell with Him and never grow old,” says the Dove.

They laugh and run through fields of light.

A great Feast unfolds — people from every nation singing, “Blessed is He who comes in the Name of Yahuah!”

The Light now covers the whole earth.

“From shadow to sunrise,” says the Dove, “Yahuah’s Feasts told the story of His plan—from the Lamb who died, to the Spirit who burned, to the King who reigns forever.”

The path of light forms a complete circle around the children.

Let’s Celebrate!

Trumpets = Sunrise
Atonement = Sundown
Tabernacles = Sunrise
Only Atonement specifies sundown.

Children sing a triumphant finale:

“The King is coming, lift your voice!
All creation now rejoice!
Trumpets sound and hearts are free,
He shall reign eternally!”

FAITH IN ACTION:

Let's Celebrate the Fall Feasts!

Trumpets Craft:

Make a paper trumpet and shout "The King is Coming!"

Atonement Reflection:

Write something you're sorry for, pray, and then tear the paper as a sign of forgiveness.

The Light never ends.
It only grows brighter.

FAITH IN ACTION:

Let's Celebrate the Fall Feasts!

Tabernacles Joy Tent:

Build a mini hut of branches, leaves, or blankets and decorate with lights.

“The King Is Coming”

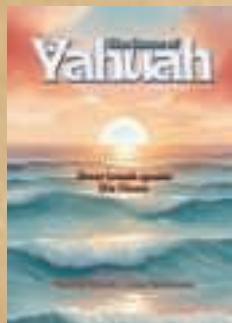

The Spring Feasts were fulfilled, the middle Feast renewed, and the Fall Feasts still to come. They cannot pass before they come.
